CMCs and Status for serving on conference boards

Book of Discipline ¶5340.F: “When a conference ministerial candidate is under appointment to a church as pastor-in-charge, he/she is considered “clergy” (to maintain a lay/clergy balance) when serving on committees and boards. In all other matters, he/she is considered a “layperson”.

A CMC is still a member of the local church, thus has lay status. This is distinct from ordained Elders who are members of the conference and therefore have the status of clergy.
